8 WINDWARD LANE, CRESCENT LAKE

Set on nearly two level acres where the lawn runs straight to the water, 8 Windward Lane is new construction in the truest sense — never lived in, freshly finished, and waiting for its first chapter. The architecture keeps its promises simply: long horizontal rooflines, white masonry softened by bands of warm timber, and glass wherever the lake wants to come inside.

The main level is organized around the water. A great room with floor-to-ceiling glazing opens through sliding walls to the terrace, while the oak-and-stone kitchen anchors the everyday wing with quiet confidence. Five bedroom suites — plus a study that could be a sixth — give everyone a private corner; six baths in honed stone and matte black keep mornings friction-free.

Outside, paved paths cross the lawn to the shoreline, the courtyard motor court welcomes without ceremony, and the whole parcel is fenced and gated. Bring a boat, bring a builder for the dock you have been sketching, or bring nothing at all — the hard work here is already done.

Crescent Lake is the kind of place people mean when they say they want to slow down without giving anything up. Mornings here start with rowers cutting lines across still water and end with long light over the western ridge. The lakefront village keeps a working bakery, a small marina, and a farmers' market that takes over the green every Saturday from May to October. Wine country is forty minutes south, the coast just over an hour west, and the pace in between belongs entirely to you.
